

- MoonStar cryptocurrency project has launched its NFTs marketplace
- The project's community was long waiting for the marketplace
- Now the users of the platform can easily create, hold, and collect these digital collectibles
- MoonStar is one tremendous project offering good gains

MoonStar offers an experience of a new type of digital currency that automatically rewards the hodlers vi its frictionless yield and liquidity generation tool. Notably, the cryptocurrency project is entirely community driven, and stealth launched. Recently, the project has launched its own Non-Fungible Tokens (NFTs) marketplace. Indeed, following the craze of this emerging industry several digital assets exchanges are establishing their own digital collectibles marketplace. Ultimately, the users can find, create, and collect digital collectibles on the platform.

MoonStar community's long wait is over

On Thursday, the team behind the MoonStar project announced the launch of their Non-Fungible Token's marketplace. According to the tweet, the community's long wait was over for the launch of such a next generation marketplace. Moreover, the tweet also noted that the users of their platform can now mint NFTs from image, audio, or videos. Likewise, anyone on the platform can create their own collections.

It is worth noting that to develop our own trending NFT on the decentralized platform of MoonStar, the artists need to join the tremendous growing marketplace. Indeed, to begin with the creation, the users are required to choose and upload a file and select its type. Notably, the platform supports files like PNG, GIF, WEBP, or MP4 files that are less than 3mb. Simultaneously, after uploading the files the artists have to choose the price, category, royalties, title, description and a specific collection. While creating an NFT token, the user can easily preview the NFT's 350px x 350px version.

MoonStar's native token is growing

The cryptosphere has witnessed several digital assets in the market gaining tremendous value making their investors rich. On the other hand, several projects have also shown tremendous performance due to celebrity words. However, among all these potential assets, MoonStar is one soaring project. Notably, we have observed that with the latest integration of the NFT marketplace, the price of MoonStar's native crypto assets also surged higher. However, at press time the cryptocurrency is being traded at the level of $0.00000001882.
