While the safeguarding champ Bucs are greatly preferred this afternoon, Philadelphia has actually been among the NFC's most popular groups over the last 2 months.

The Eagles revealed some heart in their last conference with the Buccaneers, a video game that Tampa just got away with a win in after warding off a frenzied second-half return effort.

The Bucs held a 28 -7 lead deep into the 3rd quarter, however Philadelphia closed within a single rating prior to falling simply short.

Eagles QB Jalen Hurts declared that Philadelphia's offense has actually greatly enhanced because Week 6:

"As an offense, we've type of transformed and developed in regards to who we are, our identity. Early on, we were sort of looking for who we were— what we wished to do, how we wished to do it. We've fine-tuned some things and we've gotten proficient at doing a great deal of various things."

Hurts isn't incorrect, as Philadelphia has actually changed into among the NFL's leading hurrying groups in the months because.

The club ended up No. 1 in the league by publishing 159.7 backyards per video game on the ground this year, a figure buoyed by the group's 185 hurrying backyards per video game average because Week 7.

The Eagles ran the ball 550 times in 2021— one off Tennessee's league-leading number— with a massive 418 of those brings following their Week 6 defeat versus Tampa. The group's 25 hurrying goals led the NFL, with the 10 Hurts typed pacing the QB position by a broad margin.

Philadelphia will wish to utilize that powerful ground video game to chew up clock and keep Tampa's offense off the field.

The Bucs were difficult to stop when they had the football this year. MVP preferred Tom Brady assisted an offense that ranked No. 2 in overall lawns (4059), No. 2 in points scored (301) and No. 1 in passing lawns (3076) per video game.

Brady's 5,316 passing backyards and 43 passing goals were both unequaled this season. The 44-year-old is entering the playoffs hot, having actually tossed for almost 1,000 backyards and 7 goals versus one interception and 2 sacks in the last 3 video games.

Tampa's defense has actually looked beatable at all times, however the group was mainly vulnerable to the pass in 2021. The Bucs yielded a middling 238.9 lawns and 26 goals through the air, with opposing offenses choosing to assault the susceptible secondary instead of a rush defense that ranked No. 3 with a 92.5 backyards per video game versus average.

Considering the Buccaneers have actually just permitted 11 hurrying TDs throughout the whole project and simply 2 gamers— Khalil Herbert and Josh Allen— had more than 100 hurrying lawns versus the group all season, it might be tough for Philadelphia to develop the run today.

The Buccaneers ended up as the NFC's No. 2 group and have a wealth of experience on their side, however they might be plagued by these adventurous Eagles in a video game that may end up closer than the spread recommends.
