

German Airways Joins ERA (European Region Airline Association)

german airways unknown

Photo: shutterstock.com

Reading Time: minute

On April 4, German Airways, one of Europe's leading wet-lease and charter airline companies, signed up with the European Regions Airline Association (ERA).

Montserrat Barriga, Director General, ERA, stated: "ERA is pleased to welcome German Airways into its strong and differed subscription. Every extra airline company member provides even more compound to the association's extensive neighborhood and highlights the worth that ERA supplies in representing airline companies prior to Europe's regulative bodies. We are likewise extremely happy they were able to participate in our long-awaited spring occasion in Malta – the best background to emphasise the multi-faceted advantages that ERA subscription supplies."

Maren Wolters, German Airways Managing Director, included: "German Airways ends up being an significantly crucial provider in European air traffic. An essential part of this is being linked and having a fantastic platform to develop contacts and exchange essential patterns. We're persuaded ERA supplies wonderful chances, fresh concepts and more co-operations. It's a opportunity to grow together. We are extremely happy that our subscription in ERA has actually provided us a house in terms of association policy. Especially in hard times like the present ones, it is essential to co-operate with other business that have comparable financial interests. The conference in Malta will increase this co-operation."

The European Regions Airlines Association consists of more than 50 airline companies and 145 business included in European air transportation. ERA represents its members' interests for the federal governments, regulative bodies and lawmakers, especially around long-lasting sustainable development for the sector.

Source: ERA

Source: German Airways Joins ERA \(European Region Airline Association\).