” One of the significant objectives for the 30 th anniversary was to bring renowned weapons from Bungie’s history into Destiny 2, that made it a simple choice for the group to bring Gjallarhorn back,” states Brandon, a designer dealing with Destiny 2 who requested his surname to be left out for personal privacy factors. “This was the ideal chance too, since having actually a release committed to Gjally and other renowned weapons enabled us to put a great deal of love into upgrading the weapon’s visuals, audio, and style for Destiny 2“
